Hi Chuck,

I am responding to all your emails and providing the details accordingly.

You said you wrote an email to me from your other email address, I call it out that I (we) have not received the same and we were waiting for your to respond to my previous email.

We are ready to execute the email campaign you are asking, again and again, want to see as the receiver would see and this has happened 4-5 times and you never come back with a solid answer saying yes or no.

I have told you that we will go live now, some 3 days back and you did not respond with an affirmative.

Here is what we will do, we will go live later today with your campaign.

Thanks,

Regards,

Hi Jason!

Just to let you know that here, we have had a meeting and I have had to provide excuses again on this job with you and your company which we paid for months ago!

It was the feeling of others that, if this job was going to be done, it would have been done by now! I am instructed to end our relationship with you and your company.

By this email notice I am doing that. We want our funds of $1,500.00 paid you-your company for the subject job wired back to our bank account by Monday morning or there will be drastic action taken as it is the feeling of all, that we have been, and are, being strung along, and maybe the victim of wire fraud! We are very unhappy with you and your company this morning and that is putting it mildly!

Sincerely,

CHUCK TAYLOR

Hi Jason!

I received the item below to this email but couldn't figure it out!

Please review and reply.
